About NCUR

At least 4,000 undergraduate students from colleges and universities across the US and other nations, representing all academic disciplines, gather to present their research, creative or scholarly projects. NCUR creates a unique environment to celebrate and promote exemplary student achievement, which serves to advance and enrich undergraduate education.

Have you done an independent research paper or developed a good business plan? Do you have a teaching philosophy or civic engagement initiative you want to share with colleagues? Have you recently conducted scientific research in the lab or field? Have you created artwork or a performance to display? Students who have done significant independent academic work - in any academic program or major - are urged to consider submitting a proposal.

The Annual National Conference on Undergraduate Research will be held on April 13-15, 2026, at Greater Richmond Convention Center | 403 N 3rd St, Richmond, VA 23219. Please visit the NCUR 2026 website for more information

OURCA Travel Grant

The Office of Undergraduate Research and Creative Activities (OURCA) at SU sponsors a Travel Grant Award Program, which enables outstanding SU undergraduate students to present their research, creative, or scholarly projects at the National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR). The award will cover travel, registration, and hotel. Students must be registered as undergraduates at Salisbury University in Spring 2026 in order to qualify.

Please note that the Travel Grant Award Program is highly competitive, with funds for a limited number of students
