WELCOME

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

As we begin a new academic year, this fall marks an especially meaningful season at Salisbury University. Across our campus and in our community, we are celebrating SU's Centennial – 100 years of transformative education and artistic expression.

Fittingly, this issue of Panorama is inspired by the theme: Centennial: Looking Back, Moving Forward.

Through this lens, we've curated a lineup of exceptional programs that honor our rich past while boldly embracing the future. From music and theatre to exhibitions, lectures and festivals, this season's events highlight the many ways our students, faculty, alumni and partners continue to shape SU's legacy.

You'll find Centennial-designated programs throughout the magazine, including performances that revisit artistic milestones of the 1920s, exhibitions showcasing the talents of our alumni and faculty, and conversations that engage with the pivotal cultural moments that have defined the last century.

Among the many highlights is a performance by the Peacherine Ragtime Society Orchestra, hailed as the nation's premier ragtime ensemble. In a nod to the era of SU's founding, the group will perform the original live score to Harold Lloyd's classic silent film The Freshman – offering a one-of-a-kind trip back to 1925. Also not to be missed is "1920s Rewind with Gershwin and Ravel," presented by the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra. This concert showcases Rhapsody in Blue and Boléro – two groundbreaking works that perfectly capture the energy, elegance and innovation of the Jazz Age.

Whether you are joining us for the first time or have been part of the SU story for years, we invite you to celebrate this milestone with us. Let the arts, ideas and culture found in these pages inspire you as we look back with pride and forward with purpose.

We can't wait to welcome you.

Dr. Carolyn R. Lepre
President, Salisbury University

INTRODUCING THIS YEAR'S PANORAMA THEME

CENTENNIAL

Looking Back, Moving Forward

As we celebrate a century of learning, creativity and growth at Salisbury University, this year's Panorama theme, Centennial: Looking Back, Moving Forward, reflects the cultural and educational legacy of our institution.

As the title suggests, this commemorative edition honors our history as it embraces our future. It highlights significant moments and events that have shaped the university and our wider culture over the past 100 years through special programs and historic exhibitions. It also offers thoughtful examinations of the state of our nation and world, inviting discussion and debate on contemporary issues of national and global significance.

True to our longstanding commitment to the arts, this year's Panorama continues to celebrate and provide access to world-class national and global artistic expressions.

Looking to the future, the innovative work of our inspiring students, distinguished alumni, visionary faculty and pioneering staff comes to life through exhibitions, performances, talks and signature programs. These contributions reflect the unique spirit that defines Salisbury University.

Join us for these exciting events as we showcase the present, revisit the past and imagine the future.

SALISBURY.

CLASSIC SERIES

Features established artists and projects widely recognized for their world-class artistry and singular interpretations of classical and historical forms, genres, and repertoire.

CELEBRATING OUR CENTENNIAL Peacherine Ragtime Society Orchestra

Friday, September 12 • 7 p.m. • Holloway Hall, Jackson Family Auditorium • F|T

The Peacherine Ragtime Society Orchestra is "the premier American ragtime ensemble" as hailed by The Washington Post. Peacherine recreates the musical stylings of a bygone era underscoring classic silent films using the original orchestral scores. As part of our Centennial programming, this performance features Harold Lloyd's feature length comedy The Freshman (1925) paired with its original score, accompanied live.

GLOBAL EXPERIENCES SERIES

This year's Global Experiences Series celebrates SU's Centennial by showcasing a dynamic lineup of contemporary artistic expressions from around the world – each rooted in unique cultural histories and reflecting our longstanding commitment to global diversity in the arts.

Ilê Aiyê Performance

Wednesday, September 10 • 7:30 p.m.
Holloway Hall, Jackson Family Auditorium • F|T

Established in 1974 in the Liberdade neighborhood of Salvador, Bahia, Ilê Aiyê is a cultural and social organization, as well as a musical powerhouse, celebrated for its unique Afro-Brazilian rhythms and captivating performances particularly in the genre of samba-reggae, which emerged in the 1970s as a response to the cultural and social inequalities faced by Black communities in Salvador. Ilê Aiyê's performances are renowned for their iconic blend of elaborate costumes, choreographed dances and electrifying energy, captivating audiences in Brazil and around the world.

Yeison Landero

Friday, October 3 • 7:30 p.m.
Holloway Hall, Jackson Family Auditorium • F|T

Landero blends the rich, folkloric sounds of the accordion with propulsive rhythms, delivering a soulful homage to his family's cumbia legacy while infusing it with new energy for the 21st century.

Read more in the Hispanic Heritage Month section on p.27.

The Bulgarian Duo Featuring Violinist Georgy Valtchev & Pianist Lora Tchekorotova

Monday, November 3 • 7 p.m.
Holloway Hall, Great Hall • F|T

Performing together since 1996, Valtchev and Tchekorotova were first presented to the public at Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall in a concert, titled "Musical Treasures from Bulgaria" under the sponsorship of the Cyril and Methodius International Foundation. Ever since, the artists have appeared together in recitals and chamber music collaborations throughout the United States and Europe to critical acclaim.

The duo appears regularly at Carnegie's Weill Recital Hall, NYC 92nd Street Y, the Kennedy Center and many international chamber festivals, including Sofia Music Weeks and Apolonia in Bulgaria, Baståd Chamber Music Festival in Sweden, and the Deerfield Memorial Hall Summer Concerts and the Kneisel Hall Chamber Music Festival in Blue Hill, ME.

Sponsored by World Artists Experiences, Inc., the Embassy of Bulgaria and SU Office of Cultural Affairs.

Zelzeleh x Kutay Sezginel

Zelzeleh is the brainchild of veteran drummer/producer/composer Ravish Momin, who has focused on creating a new global music that blends Persian classical modes, Sufi chants, Turkish Maqam music and Indian street rhythms. Drawing inspiration from the Association for the Advancement of Creative Musicians (AACM) motto, "ancient to the future," Zelzeleh combines traditional instruments with electronic instruments and cutting-edge technological tools to create "Digital Sufi Music." Along with Momin, this performance features Turkish multi-instrumentalist Kutay Sezginel playing a variety of ancient string instruments with electronics.

Heidi Hodgen: Becoming Animal

September 2-October 1 • Conway Hall,
SU Art Galleries | Gallery 128

Opening Reception:

Thursday, September 4 • 5-7 p.m.

Hogden's artwork highlights the delicate, often unseen threads that bind us to the environment, while reflecting on the larger ecological issues of loss, change, and coexistence. Nocturnal creatures – often invisible during the day – become central figures in a quiet yet profound dialogue between human existence and the natural world.

Nami Oshiro: Iyasasa

October 10-November 15 • Conway Hall,
SU Art Galleries | Gallery 128

Artist Talk & Reception:

Friday, October 17 • 5-7 p.m.

Oshiro makes drawings, paintings and comics that play with absurdities in response to societal constructs like race and gender. Her style is influenced by her Okinawan-Japanese background and movements like ukiyo-e and shin hanga. "Iyasasa" is a cry used in traditional Okinawan folk songs. It is a chant of emphasis with no literal meaning. Nevertheless, it has been passed down in music through generations.

Natural Growth Process

Featuring Alex Epstein, Katherine Tzu-Lan Mann & Jenny Walton

September 5-October 25 • SU Art Galleries | University Gallery
in Fulton Hall

Exhibition Reception: Friday, September 5 • 5-7 p.m.

This exhibition highlights Maryland and DC-based women artists making beautiful, labor-intensive work that celebrates creating, living and transformation for the better despite many obstacles and obstructions.

Michael Szabo Visiting Artist Talk

Thursday, September 11 • 5:30 p.m. • Conway Hall 156

San Francisco sculptor Szabo creates large-scale, site-integrated sculptures that speak to the environments they inhabit. Working predominantly in stainless steel and bronze, he also works with stone, glass, water and landscape integration.

Mike Pugh Visiting Artist Talk

Thursday, September 25 • 5:30 p.m. • Conway Hall 156

Pugh is an award-winning ceramic artist who learned to craft American pottery in the North Carolina tradition. Before opening his pottery at the historic Quaker Friendship Farm in Carroll County, MD, he earned degrees in architecture and history. Pugh creates public-scaled artworks as well as wheel-thrown, functional wares.

Hard Art DC 1979

November 7-December 18

SU Art Galleries | University Gallery in Fulton Hall

Exhibition Reception: Friday, November 7 • 5-7 p.m.

Punk music and culture burst forth in the U.S. in the 1970s. This exhibition brings alive the birth of the DC punk scene and its lasting impact on culture worldwide. The book (Akashic Books, Ltd.) and exhibition are framed around photographs taken by celebrated photojournalist Lucian Perkins of five seminal DC shows while he was still an intern at The Washington Post. Musician and writer Alec MacKaye appears in Perkins' photographs and pens the narrative of his time as a young teen attending these transformational shows.

HARD ART DC 1979 ASSOCIATED EVENTS

Nick Pimentel Visiting Artist Talk

Thursday, October 9 • 5:30 p.m. • Conway Hall 156

Inspired by the DC art and music scene, and with a profound love for design and innovation, Pimentel began his career as a graphic designer and then shifted his focus to hospitality. For 14 years, he helped lead Toolbox Creative, a full-service multimedia design firm with clients, including IcelandAir, 9:30 Club and Human Rights Watch. Pimentel's restaurants and branding work include Room 11, Bad Saint, Ellē and more.

Lely Constantinople Visiting Artist Talk

Thursday, November 6 • 5:30 p.m. • Conway Hall 156

Constantinople is a photo-based artist from Washington, DC, who has been exhibiting her work nationally and internationally for over 20 years. Her photographs are held in the collections of the Anacostia Community Museum, the Smithsonian National Museum of American History as well as numerous private collections. She is also an independent photo editor, archivist and teacher. She is co-curator and photo editor for Hard Art DC 1979.

Lucian Perkins Visiting Artist Talk

Friday, November 7 • 3:30 p.m.

Fulton Hall 111 – Herman van Apeldoorn Film Center

A two-time Pulitzer Prize winner, Perkins worked as a staff photographer for The Washington Post for 27 years. While at the Post, Perkins covered many significant events in the U.S. and abroad, including Russia and the former Soviet Union since 1988, the first Palestinian uprising, and the wars in the former Yugoslavia, Iraq and Afghanistan. He co-founded "InterFoto," an international photography festival in Moscow and published two books: Hard Art DC 1979 and Runway Madness.

MacKaye is an American singer and musician best known as a member of the DC hardcore bands Untouchables, the Faith, Ignition and the Warmers. Today, he is vocalist in The Hammered Hulls, Chief Preparator at The Phillips Collection and a writer graduating as a Lannan Fellow at Georgetown University in 2011. SU English faculty member Nieves is an accomplished poet, having published dozens of poems over the past few years in various leading journals. Curio, his book of poetry, has received rave reviews from top poets around the country. Nieves has been nominated six times for the prestigious Pushcart Prize.

Punk The Capital: Building A Sound Movement Screening & Q&A With Filmmaker James June Schneider

Thursday, December 4 • 5:30 p.m.

Fulton Hall 111 – Herman van Apeldoorn Film Center

When punk rock erupted in Washington, DC, it was a mighty convergence of powerful music, friendships and clear minds. This film is the first to explore the incredible challenges that this subculture faced when it took root in the nation's capital in the late 1970s. Featuring musicians such as Bad Brains, Henry Rollins, and Ian and Alec MacKaye, this film dives deep into the ideas and sounds from this transformative music scene.

Drop In: Skateboarding's Cultural Influence On The Lower Shore

June 20-September 12

The Ocean Bowl, the world's oldest municipal skatepark, is a landmark on the Eastern Shore. For over 49 years, it has fostered a vibrant, multi-generational skate community and has acted as a blueprint for future parks. This exhibition chronicles the Bowl's influential history and cultural impact.

Beneath The Surface: The Poetry And Writings Of Lem Ward

July 11-October 3
 Ward Brothers Gallery

The Ward Brothers' legacy is legendary in wildfowl carving. Their decoys are easily recognized by collectors, but many might not know the magic carved into the bottom of select birds. This exhibition displays the poetry and writings of Lem Ward as found carved and written into the bottom of a variety of decoys throughout his career and life.

Folk Festival Installations

September 19-October 30

During the weekend of September 19, downtown Salisbury is hosting the third annual Maryland Folk Festival. The Museum of Eastern Shore Culture has curated and coordinated the Folklife Area of the festival since its inception and has multiple installations showcasing the traditional arts and cultural heritage of past and present demonstrators and themes.

See the MESC's community activity programs in the SU Around Town Section on p. 33.

From The Bayou: Louisiana Decoys

October 17-January 16

Louisiana's decoy carving tradition dates back to the mid-1800s, when waterfowlers crafted wooden decoys from cypress and tupelo to attract ducks. With bold colors and distinctive styles, the practice evolved into a vibrant cultural practice passed through generations. This exhibit features old birds, speaking to the distinctive carving and paint styles of that region, as well as more contemporary, decorative decoys.

Hunting Camps

November 7-January 16

The institution of the waterfowl hunting club is uniquely American. These clubs have played an important part in the conservation of American waterfowl. They were the first to impose bag limits, bar automatic guns, limit shooting seasons and shooting hours, and create waterfowl rest areas and waterfowl rest days. Take an in-depth look at hunting camps and clubs of the Mid-Atlantic.

Rebel Without a Cause

Directed by Nicholas Ray

USA, 1955. Rated PG-13.

Sunday, September 14 • 3 p.m.

A season of coming-of-age themed films begins with a performance that still electrifies the screen. James Dean stars in a movie that shocked the nation, ripping away the façade of post-war America to expose the rage of the country's youth. In this archetypal drama of teenage angst and rebellion, three high school students who should lead idyllic lives in the stable, comfortable suburban families explode with violence and sexuality that their parents cannot understand.

The Class

Directed by Laurent Cantet

France, 2008. Rated PG-13.

Sunday, October 12 • 3 p.m.

François and his fellow teachers prepare for a new year at a high school in a tough Parisian neighborhood, where cultures and attitudes clash in the classroom, serving as a microcosm of contemporary France. Former teacher and novelist François Bégaudeau plays a version of himself in this largely improvised film, workshopped by the cast for over a year, which was the unanimous winner of the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival.

Moonlight

Directed by Barry Jenkins

USA, 2016. Rated R.

Sunday, November 9 • 3 p.m.

Moonlight is about Chiron, a young man coming-of-age and eventually coming out across three heartbreakingly beautiful chapters. The images are saturated with luxurious color, while the soundtrack musically relays Chiron's changing self with equally "vivid" strength. If you haven't seen this film on the big screen, this is a phenomenal opportunity to experience it. If you've already seen the film, you'll know why it won Best Picture at the Academy Awards, making history as the first film with an all-Black cast to win that award.

Shakespeare's Alternate Realities: Aesthetics & Ethics In The Plays

Thursday, November 20 • 7 p.m. • Conway Hall 156

Based upon her recently published book, Danielle St. Hilaire examines how Shakespeare confronted and reconciled the tension between claims that affirm the ethical effect of literature because it is grounded in reality and the denial that purely imaginative works can have any such real-world value. The lecture focuses on meta-theatrical moments in A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Tempest and Hamlet. Ultimately, St. Hilaire contends that Shakespeare imagined answers to the perennial question, "Why does literature matter?" – a line of inquiry as relevant today as it was during the Renaissance.

Dammed Land: Four Centuries of a Bay Barricaded, Transformed & Freed

Wednesday, October 8 • 7 p.m.
Henson Science Hall 243

Join Chesapeake author and historian Kate Livie for a compelling talk exploring how the rise of dams – from colonial mills to the Conowingo Dam – reshaped the Chesapeake's ecosystem and culture. From the fascinating history of early mill dams and the impact on the region's first commercial fishery for shad, to industrial damming's disruption of Bay biodiversity and the modern dam removal movement, this lecture offers a powerful look at the intersection of nature, industry, and legacy along the Chesapeake Bay over 400 years.

Co-sponsored by Environmental Studies Department and the Nabb Center.

Shoreline Cinema: A Night of Film & History on the Nanticoke

Wednesday, November 5 • 5 p.m.
SU Nanticoke River Center (Riverton, MD)

Join us for an evening of eye candy and riverside conversation at SU's Nanticoke River Center (NRC) in Riverton! We're transforming the riverside into an outdoor cinema screening original film prints of luscious environmental films alongside historical treasures from the Nabb Center archives that bring the Nanticoke's vibrant past to life. Bring a lawn chair or blanket and enjoy strikingly beautiful short, experimental films that explore our changing relationship with water. In the case of inclement weather, we'll screen inside the NRC. SU van transport for students leaves at 4:30 p.m. from the Admissions House parking lot.

Co-sponsored by Environmental Studies Department, English Department and the Nabb Center.

Film Screening: Sujo

Monday, October 13 • 7 p.m.
Fulton Hall 111 – Herman van Apeldoorn Film Center

Sujo is a haunting, lyrical portrait of a boy born into cartel violence in rural Mexico. After his father's murder, young Sujo is taken in by relatives and raised in seclusion, but the shadow of violence looms. Spanning years, this meditative coming-of-age story explores destiny, innocence and the struggle to break cycles of brutality in a world where escape seems impossible. A quiet, powerful tale of resilience and identity.

Co-sponsored by the Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies Department

Yeison Landero

Friday, October 3 • 7:30 p.m.
Holloway Hall, Jackson Family Auditorium

Latin Grammy-nominated musician Landero was born in San Jacinto (Bolívar) in the center of the Montes de María region of the Colombian Caribbean. He carries in his soul a cumbiambero heart inherited from his grandfather Andrés Landero: a musician recognized as the king of cumbia nationally and internationally. Yeison blends the rich, folkloric sounds of the accordion with propulsive rhythms, delivering a soulful homage to his family's cumbia legacy while infusing it with new energy for the 21st century.

Honoring Baltimore's Native Past, Present & Future

With Ashley Minner Jones

Thursday, November 13 • 5:30 p.m.
Fulton Hall 111 – Herman van Apeldoorn Film Center

Minner Jones (Lumbee) shares about her practice as a community-based visual artist and public scholar working in collaboration with Baltimore's American Indian community to honor their collective past, present and future. Minner Jones is a community-based visual artist and folklorist from Baltimore. Her interdisciplinary practice is deeply rooted in place – usually within the context of the U.S. South – and is focused on honoring and celebrating everyday people. She earned an M.F.A. in community arts from the Maryland Institute College of Art and a Ph.D. in American studies from the University of Maryland College Park. As an artist, she has exhibited widely and her work is represented in several prominent collections. Her research is being archived as "The Ashley Minner Collection" in the Albin O. Kuhn Library of the University of Maryland Baltimore County, where she was formerly a Professor of the Practice in the Department of American Studies and the inaugural director of the minor in public humanities. Prior to her return to independent practice, she worked as assistant curator for history and culture at the Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian. She is an enrolled citizen of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina.
